

THE FORMER BUSINESS

PARTNER

You have known Egan Bakker for fifteen years or more and even helped him set up his first workshop. At first, everything was split fifty-fifty, but then he squeezed you out of the business right before he made it big.

What you know:

- Egan Bakker is loud; a bully and he loves money more than anything.
- He does love his spouse in his own, possessive way, but they are too good for him.
- He still owes you a hundred gold.
- His inventions would have never been bought during the War if not for your hard work and as soon as they were, he ditched you.
- Recently he seemed interested in your help again. You hate it, but you want the money he owes you.

Who you know:

- You've known The Spouse since they met Bakker
- The Loyal Retainer has known Egan longer than you

- The Ice Queen looks very familiar

At the time of the murder:

- You were drinking together in the First-Class Dining Car until he passed out.
- You left him sleeping it off on the table and went to bed.

The player must decide:

- How exactly did the partnership end?
- How did you get involved in arms dealing during the war?

Items in your cabin:

- An old picture of you and Egan at a party from when you first met. The Ice Queen is just visible in the background. A coincidence?
- A schema for a device very similar to Bakker's new pistol.